

DANIEL ROBSON

Over the years the artistic style of Danny Robson has been through various changes. In his early years, his passion for aerosol art and 'spraying on walls' was his chosen form for 'expressing his creative flare'. He changed his medium to acrylic on canvas, venturing into abstract and 'decorative', giving rise to a more "pop art" style some years later.

Robson always is searching for a special, uniquely themed collection that could reach the viewer with a deeper meaning. He bases his pieces on his own and others, life experiences.

In his words, "As an artist, I always want to 'touch' the viewers mind with my work by producing thought provoking pieces".